Post -Constructions Anti-Termite Treatment

Protecting your home for a long life is a matter you need to consider carefully before building or renovating. When it comes to termite proofing home, correctly applied chemical barriers can be effective in keeping termites out and controlling active infestations. A chemical barrier is created between the termites in the soil and the building that has to be protected and straight holes are drilled as close as possible to the infected wall about 15 inches apart from each other.

Insecticide is then poured, so that it reaches the soil and creates a chemical barrier to eliminate the termites present there and to stop them from re-infesting. In building pillars, holes are drilled around it and similarly, insecticide poured into it.

Pre -Constructions Anti-Termite Treatment

Annual Maintenance Contract 1-YEAR MAINTENANCE CONTRACT

To stop and prevent the movement of termites from the ground, holes are drilled from inside your premises at the junction of the wall and the floor or just above the skirting (depending on the flooring) at an angle of 45 degrees. The holes are drilled along the side of the entire outer wall at approximately 30cm (12") intervals. The insecticide is then poured into these holes to soak the masonry. If your premises are on the ground floor, the partition walls are also treated. The drilling operation is not carried out on the partition walls above the ground floor because the RCC slabs act as a mechanical barrier and the termites cannot penetrate them. It takes about 2-3 hours to treat a flat of about 750 Sq. Ft.
